latter being for crushed rock on the Maysville and Lexington pike, the main thoroughfare of the county, and the specifications call for the rolling of the rock after it has been placed in position. This contract was let to Woods Bros., of Paris.

The court passed an order giving the contractors until Saturday, April 10, for the filing of their bonds. Judge Denis Dundon and Road Supervisor Redmon were appointed a committee to let all turnpike contracts for roads rejected at Saturday's meeting. After appropriating $500 for the use of Turnpike Supervisor Redmon, and naming Magistrates Claybrook and Fretwell as a committee to settle with W. W. Mitchell, the outgoing county treasurer, court adjourned until Saturday, April 10.

Opening of Vaudeville Season.

The opening of the vaudeville season found everything in ship-shape order at the Paris Grand last evening when the initial offering of the Midland Amusement Company was presented to the public and a good size audience greeted the opening bill.

The program is made up of five in numbers and is preceded by an overture by the High School orchestra. Two sets of motion pictures, Prince & Virginia, comedy talking and singing artists, the illustrated song by Miss Nellie Lovely, who established herself as a prime favorite among the Paris theatre-goers last season, and the Poiriers, the world's greatest gymnasts, complete a bill which is rarely seen in a vaudeville theatre where higher prices are charged.

The Midland Amusement Company is composed of home people who have gone to an enormous expense in equipping and for maintaining a high class place of amusement, and it behooves every citizen of Paris to turn out and extend to them the patronage that they deserve. It is their purpose to present some of the best that can be secured in vaudeville, and without the united support of the theatre-goers it is useless for them to attempt such a venture.

However, it is our hope that as the season advances that large crowds will nightly be in attendance at the Grand. If the performance last night is any indication of what may be sent here in the future by their booking agents and the company that supplies them with their motion picture films, we may have no fear as to Paris claiming to have one of the best vaudeville shows in Central Kentucky for the small admission fee that is charged.

The search-light which has been for the past few weeks one of the main advertising features of the Midland Amusement Company was put into active use last night and its brilliant rays were reflected over the entire city. It is mounted on the highest point of the Opera House and has 6,000 candle power.
